Stellar British School Student Gets Perfect Score on College-Level Exam

CHICAGO (Sept. 6, 2007) — British School of Chicago 8th grader Aaron Lichter is already getting ahead in college: he recently achieved the highest grade possible on the Advanced Placement U.S. History exam. A British School student since 2004 and a Winnetka resident, Aaron is likely to gain college credit for his score, which is the equivalent of a college grade A. Most students taking the test are three or four years older than Aaron, though he performed among the best students nationwide.

Administered by the College Board, Advanced Placement exams are designed to be a precise, labor intensive process of testing a student's knowledge in a particular field.

The British School of Chicago opened in 2001 and offers classes for students ages three to 18. For more information about the British School, which will move to its new Lincoln Park campus in January 2008, call 773-506-2097 or visit www.BritishSchoolChicago.org.
